The address given by Mrs. Hyslop, Dominion organizer of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, in the club rooms of the Methodist church last week was a decided success. Mrs. Hyslop spoke on the world wide work of the organization and also the world's convention held in Glasgow, Scotland, which it was her privilege to attend. Her knowledge of temperance work and its social and political conditions makes her an interesting, instructive and impressive speaker, and the close attention with which she was listened to bore testimony of the attractive manner in which she presented her address. All those who took advantage of the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Hyslop were well repaid. Special music was furnished by Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Towler. Refreshments were served.

"Faust" drew a large and appreciative audience on Saturday night. The production was very good, Griffith sustaining his high reputation as an impersonator of his stately majesty. His support was only fair, Martine being the strongest character. Marguerite was not—but we won't hurt her tender feelings by saying anything about her. The company was well satisfied with the crowd, and say that Lacombe has the most comfortable opera house on the line.

For soreness of the muscles whether induced by violent exercise or injury, Chamberlain's Liniment is excellent. This Liniment is also highly esteemed for the relief it affords in cases of rheumatism. Sold by Dealers Everywhere.

Canadian Loyalty.
Dr. Parmelee, the deputy head of the provincial department of public instruction, spoke in London the other day, at a banquet given to the Canadian Technical Commission and made some timely remarks as to the character of Canadian loyalty. It is too often lightly assumed that Canada may lose its British sentiment because formerly British colonists became estranged in the eighteenth century over a question of taxation. It is too often forgotten that the great majority of the earliest British settlers in the thirteen colonies were men and women who had left the home-land on account of heavy grievances imposed upon them by church and state; that their loyalty was not to the crown but to the principles of justice and freedom; that they were therefore seldom cordial, and that the chief consideration which led them to maintain political connection with Great Britain was the need of defence against the great power of France on this continent and against the red men. When the power of France fell, the American revolution was made possible, and this principle was recognized at the time. There were loyal elements, also, in the colonies, at the War of the Revolution proved, but there can be little question that all along there had been a strong if latent, separatist element which was bound, sooner or later, to try its strength with the loyal. But as Dr. Parmelee well points out, the British immigration to Canada, throughout the British period, has not been that of men with political grievances. Thousands, indeed, have come to our shores to seek and to find, a larger scope for their energies, but few have come with their hearts seared by zeal or fancied political injustice, and none by reason of such assault upon their religious consciences as were endured by the pilgrim fathers. An old time has passed away, and the vast mass of British immigration to Canada, from the earliest days of British possession, and including the U. E. Loyalist, was permeated as in the immigration of today with warm feelings of attachment to the Mother Country. In spite of "Americanizing" influences at work, in press and theatre, and elsewhere we are as a people, still British to the core. That this is a permanent and solid feature is being grasped by none more readily than by the farmers of the United States, who are now pouring into our North-West. The only doubts being cast upon the fact are those promulgated by some of our public men, and who are doing it in the alleged name of "loyalty."

Kernels of Fact.

In a circular letter, protesting against the proposed reciprocity pact, one of the leading elevator companies in Nebraska says:

"It means the giving over to Canada, our greatest and best markets, the mills of the north-west and middle west, for 80,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels annually of Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa wheat, without getting anything in return. The mills of the north-west and middle west prefer the Canadian wheat even at a considerable premium, over the south-western wheat, as it makes the whitest of flour without bleaching, whereas the winter wheat of the south-west needs the bleaching process in order to compete, and this process is illegal."

"Such a condition brought about by reciprocity would benefit especially the Canadian farmer to the great disadvantage of the American farmer. To the latter it would be suicidal. It also means the giving over to the Canadian farmer our markets in the New England and the middle States for 100,000,000 bushels of our western oats, annually which grain is second only to corn in extent of production, without getting anything in return."

"Furthermore, Canada raises a superior quality of oats to those raised in the west and hence her oats would be preferred at a premium in our eastern markets, which markets now take a large part of our surplus. This would mean a large increase in the production of grain in Canada, and a corresponding decrease in the United States of both wheat and oats. Our loss would be Canada's gain."

"In a word, reciprocity places the Canadian farmer not only in direct competition with the American farmer in the latter's home markets, but gives the Canadian farmer the advantage of the superior quality of grain, and short, or distant, to our eastern markets. These markets, which we now propose to give away to our Canadian neighbors for nothing, have been the largest factors towards the building up of our western country."

This letter bears the signature of the President of the Morrison and Millard Elevator Co. of Omaha and may reasonably be assumed to reflect the sentiments of the grain dealers in the middle western states. One of the most frank and striking statements in the circular is the confession that Canada is growing superior grain, a contention that does not lack proof from other sources. While it is also suitable for mixed farming, Western Canada is primarily a grain growing country. It grows the best grain in the world and therefore it has nothing to fear from competition in that line. All it needs is a wide range of markets in order that the grain growers may receive the best price possible for their produce.

The Abolition of Parliament.
A great battle of tactics has been waged at Ottawa during the last week. The strategy of the manoeuvres by both parties was governed by the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's presence at the Imperial Conference is virtually indispensable. Canada, as the first of the over seas Dominions, could not afford to be represented at the quadrennial gathering of the statesmen of the Empire by subordinate members of the government who could not deal with authority with questions coming up for decision. The government, by urging the necessity of the Premier's presence in England, sought to expedite the passage of the Reciprocity measure, while the Opposition took advantage of this necessity to strengthen their campaign of obstruction, which, despite polite disclaimers, has been openly in progress for a month past.

The circumstances favored the Opposition. Nothing short of an obvious intention on the part of the Opposition to force an immediate election by the refusal of supplies, would have justified, in the judgment of a majority of Canadians, Sir Wilfrid's absence from the conference; and the proposal of the Opposition leader for a two months' truce was one which Sir Wilfrid found himself able to accept—particularly as it is quite apparent that it will take two or three months for the reciprocity measure to reach a determining vote in the United States Senate.

Mr. Borden thus appeared to have scored, but it would be premature to assume that the ultimate advantage of the programme that has been arranged will rest with the Opposition. This will be determined by the state of public business when the House adjourns three weeks hence. If the parliamentary programme, less reciprocity, has been carried through by that time and a supply voted either for the whole fiscal year or for a period of six or seven months the reassembling of parliament will find the government in an excellent position to apply pressure to its reciprocity programme.

The strategy will now turn upon supply. If Mr. Fielding, who will be Acting Premier, consents to an adjournment, without securing supply until September or October, he will put the control of Parliament where it remains, to a considerable extent in the hands of the Opposition; and a dead lock, with a resulting election, may ensue.

One possible result of the late summer session may be the passage of the new Redistribution bill. The census is being taken in June; and by expediting the counting the schedules of population might be in the possession of Parliament by August. This would make it possible to pass at the adjourned session the Redistribution measure by which the West would get from 15 to 20 additional members. With the circumstances redistributed the chief objection to an election this year would be removed. An election without enlarged representation for the West would be an outrage; but given our proper proportion of members there would be much to urge in support of an early appeal to the judgement of the people upon the conflicting policies of the two parties.—Winnipeg Free Press.

The Local Paper as an Advertising Medium.

Out here in the west where we build a new town one of the first things to go up is a bank. We can't do business without money. Close on its heels follows the newspaper. We can't boost the town without a local paper. With a bank and a newspaper the town is fairly under way. Other things including other advertising mediums, come later on. So it is that newspapers are the original advertising mediums, whereas many other mediums have sprung up through advertising.

The local newspaper is the most valuable of all advertising mediums. It is taken and read by the people immediately tributary to the town to which it is printed and its relation with its readers is intimate and its influence is strong. A country paper with a small circulation is worth far more as an advertising medium than many times the same number of papers issued as a part of the circulation of a metropolitan publication. The metropolitan paper is read hurriedly by busy people, the departments that the individual is interested in are hastily scanned and the remaining mass of pages are tossed aside and never looked at. The country paper which is smaller and more compact, is read carefully and thoroughly. The country is vastly different from the city in the personal relations of its people. While in the city one is not expected to have even a speaking acquaintance with the man who lives ten feet away, in the country everyone knows everyone else in the whole community, and the paper which comes to the house filled with items concerning neighbors is a message of human interest to every member of the family and it receives an intensive reading that no other publication is ever given. There are no better buyers of advertised, trade-marked goods than the very people reached by the country newspaper. Farmers and townspeople are responsive to good advertising, a fact that has often been demonstrated in our own town. An advertisement in a paper of this character, with its limited number of well read pages, stands out with a prominence that is not possible in the midst of a mass of pages of the metropolitan newspaper. The less number of pages a paper contains the more valuable is each for advertising purposes.

For effective shooting at big game, the hunter prefers a rifle with the single bullet that will drive clear down deep at a given spot rather than the shotgun which, though scattering shot over a wider surface, fails to make a very deep or lasting impression. The country newspaper, the local home journal, is the rifle which the advertiser may train upon a given spot on the map and in the mind of a given locality the bullet arguments that he is shooting. There is no waste force. The circulation of this medium is so concentrated and so thorough in its particular spot that every ounce of publicity in its columns, like the rifle bullet, goes straight to the consumers aimed at and cuts its way deep into their ideas. The more general mediums, such as the very large papers and the magazines, lose this quality of concentration. They scatter over a wide territory, like the load of a shotgun, but they are so general in their entire make up and character, and so lacking in that intense heart-interest that accompanies only news of people you are acquainted with personally that the impressions which they create upon the minds of the readers must necessarily be vague when compared with the hard-hitting localized "home paper," which is read by every member of the family from the hired girl down, from cover to cover, advertisements and all.

To Help the Starving Chinese.

Lacombe will be asked to contribute to the relief of famine stricken China. A number of citizens have interested themselves in the matter, and Mayor Macdonald has consented to act as treasurer for a fund to be raised here. All the churches are taking active steps in the matter, and a committee consisting of Misses Carrie Glass, Dora Talbot, Burke and Isak have been appointed collectors for their respective churches. Funds are urgently needed by the sufferers, and it is to be hoped that our citizens will respond generously to the call for help.

Appeals for help from Canada for the famine sufferers in China have received considerable response. There have been already sent from Toronto about $28,000. Considerable sums have been sent from other cities in addition. One of the most pleasing features of the situation is that the Chinese in Canada have contributed so generously toward the relief of their own people in the home land. All this has been of great value, but even that amount is but as the few leaves and twigs among the multitude.

The first cablegram that came from Rev. Dr. Donald MacGillivray, of Shanghai, the Honorary Secretary of The Famine Relief Fund, asked for one million dollars from America, and it was hoped that one hundred thousand of this would come from Canada. Even so large a sum, it appears, is not adequate to the need. A mere recital of the conditions makes one shudder. Mr. Wade Boteler, of Poohey, Northern Anhui, who is engaged in relief work, in writing of his experiences says: "I had heard a great deal of famine, and thought that I had seen much of one four years ago near here, but not until now have I ever realized to any measure what a famine is. I saw, during all the fall, almost a continuous string of refugees going where they hoped they could find a means of livelihood. It was pitiful to hear them tell of how they had lost their whole crop, and had nothing to go on for the winter and spring. My heart was moved for them, causing me to begin early to write and try to enlist sympathy in their behalf. "But the half was not told or known by me until the winter was well on, and I had begun a little relief. I had some work that I wanted to have done, and decided to have it done by the poor who were needing a way to earn their bread. I wanted to help as many as I could, and to have it, last, as long a time as possible, so I decided to give about three cents a day for labor. I thought at this price I would get only those who were in absolute need of aid, and had no other way of self-support. I also thought that I would get about 50 or 60 persons, but, to my great surprise, after the second day I had to turn away thousands of men who came and begged for work, telling the most pitiful story of how they had lost their crops, and some were with men in the family were totally without anything to their knees and beg me to give them employment at this pittance of a wage. I took on two hundred and for more than a month I have had to constantly turn people away who have been coming and seeking employment. Conditions are growing steadily worse. The bark of trees has been stripped by the hungry people and quantities of bark are sometimes offered for sale. Seed for planting the unplanted ground will be urgently needed in the spring. Warm clothing will be absolutely needed next winter as the poor people are naked or in rags. There will be use for condensed milk for helpless women and children. A census has been taken of fifteen of the worst wards in one place, and 40,000 names enrolled to get rice. The smallest possible quantities that will maintain life are given. Little girls can be had for the asking. Their parents try to find someone to whom they can give them, and when they fail, they are thrown away, their parents being utterly unable to care for them. Little boys can be purchased for from five to twenty-five cents each. Children are on the side of the road crying "I am hungry, I am hungry." The parents have to listen to this all the day and are unable to give aid. Such illustrations can be given by the thousands, and even then they are but specimens of the multitudes upon multitudes unrelieved and unknown.

Destroying His Chances.
Moses Baritz, organizer for the Socialist party in Canada, contributes an article to an eastern paper in which he declares that "Socialists cannot believe in any supernatural God; that the church will find in Socialists unrelenting foes, and that Christianity, with its superstitions, must be submerged before the workers obtain their complete emancipation." He continues, "A Christian cannot be a Socialist, and a Socialist cannot be a believer in Christ or God." It may be doubted if the Socialist party has obtained Moses Baritz as the spiritual dictator of its members, or even as the official interpreter of its creed, though its enemies will sincerely hope so. If the choice lies between Christ and this new Moses the organizer of the Socialist party, the leadership of his illustrious namesake.

$3,600 in Cash Prizes for Farmers

Tell Us How You Did It

You may win a prize by doing so

Suppose your friend Bob Wilson, on the next concession, "pulled up" at your front gate on the way back from market and asked about that silo or barn foundation you built, you would be glad to tell him, wouldn't you? And it wouldn't take you long, would it? And, as a matter of fact, you'd find as much pleasure telling him as he would in listening— isn't that right?

First you would take him over to view the silo or barn foundation. Then you would start to describe it—its dimensions—the kind of aggregate used—the proportions of cement used—number of men employed—number of hours' working time required—method of mixing—kind of forms used—method of reinforcing, if any—and finally, what the job cost. So that by the time you finished, neighbor Wilson would have a pretty accurate idea of how to go about building the particular piece of work which you described.

Now couldn't you do the same for us, with this difference—that you stand a good chance of getting well paid for your time?

In Prize "D" of our contest, open to the farmers of Canada, we offer $100.00 to the farmer in each Province who will furnish us with the best and most complete description of how any particular piece of concrete work shown by photograph sent in was done. The size of the work described makes no difference. The only important thing to remember is that the work must be done in 1911 and "CANADIAN" Cement used.

In writing your description, don't be too particular about grammar or spelling or punctuation. Leave that to literary folk. Tell it as you would tell it to your neighbor. What we want are the facts, plainly and clearly told.

Secondly, doesn't it? And it is simple. And surely it is well worth your while when you think of the reward in view.

Now all right down, take your pen or pencil—fill out the attached coupon—or a post-card if it's handier—and write for the circular which fully describes the conditions of this, the first contest of the kind ever held in Canada.

Every dealer who handles "CANADA" Cement will also be given a pointer that anyone can possibly need, are contained in our wonderfully complete book, entitled "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." A large number of Canadian farmers have already sent for and obtained copies of this free book. Have you got your copy yet? If not, you'd better send for one to-day. Whether you are a contractor for one of our prizes or not, you really ought to have this book in your library. For it contains a vast amount of information and hints that are available to the farmer.

Please send full particulars and book.

Favor Church Union.

By a majority of over two to one the members of the Presbyterians throughout the Dominion have voted in favor of church union on the present proposed basis. There are sixty-eight presbyteries in Canada and all have now voted on the question.

Fifty-four have voted in approval of the basis of union, twelve have voted against and two have modified their vote in such a way that they must be counted in opposition. The total vote cast is 229 in favor and 443 against.

The following resolution in respect to the "No Tumors" decree of the Roman Catholic church has been passed and adopted by the general conference committee of the Methodist church of Canada:

"That the Methodist church has always maintained and must continue to maintain the supremacy of the civil law in determining the conditions upon which the marriage contracts can be legally made, and what is involved in its fulfillment; that we deny the right of any church, or any other, to declare invalid or cast doubt upon the validity of any marriage solemnized according to the laws in force in any of the provinces of Canada; that we maintain that in every province of Canada each religious denomination should have equal right before the law on the question of the solemnization of marriage and all thereto pertaining and that the due application of the right of removal of religious liberty guaranteed to citizens in Canada requires that this should be recognized by all legislative bodies; that further we maintain that any and all attempts to give effect to the provisions of this 'No Tumors' decree will lead to the disturbance and ruin of duly constituted families, must meet our firm resistance, and cannot, as a means to acquiescence and civil and religious right be tolerated; that we appeal to the governments in our several provinces to enact, if not already in existence, and to enforce such measures as shall forever confirm the validity of marriage duly solemnized according to law, and thereby resist and check those who are endeavoring to undermine all our Dominion in this regard."

Taft on Canadian Resources.

President Taft's reference in his recent speech to the desirability of Canada's natural resources being made available to United States demands, was not quoted in its entirety in the report which came through the Canadian newspapers. This is what he said:

"Another and a very conclusive reason for closing the contract, is the opportunity which it gives us to increase the supply of our natural resources, which with the wastefulness to the children we have rapidly exhausted. The timber resources of Canada, which will open themselves to us inevitably under the operation of this agreement, are now apparently inexhaustible. I say 'apparently' inexhaustible, for if the same procedure were to be adopted in respect to them that we have followed in respect to our own forests, I presume that they too might be exhausted."

"But fortunately for Canada and for us, we and they have learned much more than we realized two decades ago with respect to the necessity for proper methods of forestry and of lumber cutting. And hence we may be safe in saying that under proper modern methods the timber resources open to us in Canada may derive ample supplies of timber from Canadian sources to the profit of Canada and for our own benefit."

The summarized report as published in the Canadian newspapers rather tended to support the argument put forth by various critics of the agreement that the United States having wasted their own natural resources, were now desirous of also destroying the resources of Canada. President Taft however, expressed his hope that Canada would conserve her resources to the ultimate benefit of both countries. It would undoubtedly be disastrous if the United States were to be allowed to draw without limit or restriction upon our timber, mineral, or fishery resources. The result would be rapid and ruinous depletion of our national wealth. The right and duty of the governments to limit the output from these sources of supply are now recognized. The same course is to be followed and proper resources selling the yield that is allowed in the widest markets and under conditions which will give the largest financial returns.

Wife in Education?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, on Friday made reference in parliament to an article which appeared the previous day in the Toronto Telegram. The article recounted an attempt made by some parties unnamed to force Sir Wilfrid to eject a certain minister—also unnamed—from his Government. The ground of the demand was said to be a claim that the unnamed minister was a "graft." The penalty of Sir Wilfrid's refusal to dismiss him was to be that the evidence held by the accuser would be turned over to the Opposition, and the Government would have to take the claim.

Sir Wilfrid substantially confirmed the story published in the Telegram. He had been waited on by a former acquaintance in March, who said that one of his colleagues was a booby and that unless he was ejected from the cabinet the evidence held by the visitor would be handed to the Opposition and Sir Wilfrid would have to suffer the consequences. He had heard the story, considered the evidence, then handed it back, refused absolutely to do as was demanded and told the caller to do what he pleased with it.

Neither the Telegram nor Sir Wilfrid gave the name of the accused minister nor of the party laying the accusation. The Toronto World, however, rendered the information that the minister attacked was Hon. Frank Oliver, and the instrument of accusation Mr. Daniel MacGillivuddy, late editor of the Calgary News. If the World's information is correct it is easy to guess where the bomb was constructed. It was made in Edmonton. During the winter the few young gentlemen hereabouts who declare their ambition to be Mr. Oliver's political death have been whispering freely about the streets of a terrible exposure they had under way which was to destroy his reputation for honesty. If Mr. Oliver was the intended victim of the "exposure" made through the Telegram and Mr. MacGillivuddy the "exposer," it is a pretty safe guess that the ingredients of the bomb said they were putting together.

If so, the manufacturers seem not to have been over-successful. Clearly Sir Wilfrid was not scared at the look of their product, for he handed it back and told the custodian to throw it if he wanted to. Clearly, too, the Minister of the Interior was not scared, either in resigning or in putting up his money. It is equally clear that the Opposition members were not impressed with the appearance of the missile, for they neither used it nor made speeches when Sir Wilfrid brought it to their notice. Anything the opposition members are not willing to make use of as a weapon against a member of the Laurier Government cannot be a very promising looking implement of warfare. According to the Ottawa Citizen the story was hawked about from one Conservative paper to another in a vain effort to get it published, until finally the Toronto Telegram consented to do so under names.

No far the only person who seems to have been hurt by the explosion is Mr. Daniel MacGillivuddy. To a reputation already borne by that gentleman which is not widely envied, is added—rightly or wrongly—the accusation of having made an attack under cover or which he was unwilling to publicly assume responsibility for. And if the shell said to have been thrown by Mr. MacGillivuddy was the one said to have been manufactured by the Edmonton enemies of Mr. Oliver, Mr. MacGillivuddy stands in the position of scapegoat for somebody else. Who was the man behind him, the burden of whose cowardice he is bearing?

License Commissioners Meet.

The commissioners of the license department sat in Lacombe on Saturday morning to consider the application for licenses in this district. All the applications were recommended with the exception of the new license for the Queen's Hotel here and the wholesale license for Caster. The license of the Morningstar hotel was not recommended for renewal, and Morningstar will be dry after July 1. The commissioners report that with the exception of one or two hotels in this license district have improved greatly during the past year, and there has been very little law breaking reported to the department. The hotelmen themselves have come to the conclusion that if the sale of liquor is to be tolerated by the general public, they must live up to the law, and are determined to do so.

The farmers have been hard at work for the past two weeks and seeding is about finished, the land is in fine condition, fall grain a full stand and growing rapidly, prospects for farmers very bright.

Mr. A. E. Shirliff put on his working clothes and went to his farm to do some improvements and fire guard the place.

Rimbeley's annual celebration will be held on Coronation Day, June 24th. This will be under the management of the M. W. A. who never do things by halves, and the public will not be disappointed for nothing will be left undone which will tend to make the occasion in keeping with the day we celebrate.

Rev. Buchanan, of Calgary, Supt. of Missions, conducted services at Chapel last Sunday afternoon and at Rimbeley M. E. church in the evening.

We are not credited with all the news published in this column. We have a very able helper and we are thinking of surrendering our quill to him.

Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Waters returned Saturday evening from Edmonton and report having spent a very pleasant week at the Capital. Fifty-eight delegates were in attendance at the M. W. A. convention.

The announcement that the Rev. Buchanan would hold services at Rimbeley and other points was in some way left out of our news column last week. We do not know how it happened as we duly wrote and sent it with the rest of the news.

The Bentley real estate man tells us he is very busy these days had to be called out of bed at six o'clock a few mornings ago to transact some business. Wonder what time he would have gotten up if he had not been called.

The Cattle Industry.

Official figures show that Alberta is a greater cattle country now than it ever was in the old ranching days. Surprising though it may seem this statement is borne out by statistics which show that the province last year exported more beef than in any previous year in its history.

Once upon a time all that Alberta had in way of industries was the fur trade. Then the country became the mecca of cattle and horse ranchers, finally the ranchers were crowded out in most parts and the cry was raised that the ranching industry was killed.

In 1906 the ranchers of the province sold off their surplus stock and a general clean-up was observed throughout the cattle country. Men with great herds of cattle sold almost every hoof; other men with just as big ranches sold out the number of their herds so as to be able to run them on their restricted ranges.

The homesteader had come in and taken up the ranch country, he had broken the ground and planted wheat, he had brought a few cows. The big ranchers declared the cattle industry was dead the range was gone, the herds were gone, and the cattle could not be raised. In 1906 the ranchers made their big sale, 114,000 head in all. The ranches were swept clean of almost everything saleable.

The two following years the cattle shipments were low, 88,000 in 1908 and 80,000 head in 1907. Then came 1909 when the homesteaders began to have something to turn off themselves. The total of the cattle shipments of that year was 127,000 head, more than the big year when the ranges were cleaned up in 1906. But the increase did not stop in 1909. The small farmers' output was increasing and in 1910 the total number of beef cattle sold in the province of Alberta was 154,000 head.

It is declared by those who thoroughly understand the cattle business that it is but now in its infancy. There will come a time not far distant when Alberta will be supplying hundreds of thousands of head of beef to the rest of the world, an even better grade than those that were fattened on the ranges by the big ranchers. In the old day a beef steer was allowed to range until fat. In the fall he was in good shape and was turned off for sale. There was no grain feeding. Even the spring cattle that were sold were fattened simply on hay; but Alberta beef, with its simple method of improvement, was good beef and was desired on the markets.

Now a great deal of the cattle that are sold are from small farmers, men with five, ten, or fifteen head to sell in a year. These animals are fed the winter around, they are taken up and grain fed for market, the grade of Alberta beef is going up. It has been proven that the small farmers are bringing more wealth to Alberta than the big cattle ranches, and the cattle industry, at one time, four or five years ago pessimistically declared to be dead, has proven to be simply in an infant state of development with every prospect of becoming one of the greatest industries of the province, second only to the raising of grain.

What Figures Show.
